Over $70,000 Expended in Improvements Since First of Year. Excel Builders Supply Co. Erecting Offices and Warehouse. Coal Companies Improvements and Replacements Cost Big Sum in Addition to Private Expenditures

Not since the earlier days of the town's history has there been so much activity in local building circles. Increased employment at the mines is making itself apparent in a most forcible way by the number of new houses being erected in East and West Coleman, as well as in the central portion of the town. In addition to building, many interior improvements are being made, and heating and bathroom appliances are being installed in many homes, giving full time employment to all engaged in the building and allied trades.

In all parts of town one notices new buildings being erected, and in most instances they are of substantial construction, an improvement on the old shack type of building so often seen in mining towns.

Contractor D'Appolonia has over forty men employed, and in addition other contractors are engaged on smaller buildings, such as dwellings and additions. Some people, unable to secure houses here, have rented houses in Blairmore, fast becoming a suburb of Coleman.

The grounds adjoining the town hall have been suggested as an ideal site for a memorial catyn, and the proposal will probably be acted on by the Canadian Legion.

Local Boy Earns Praise

Luke Lindoe's Drawings and Models in Pottery and Sculpture Elicits Favorable Comment of Critics

"A display of work of students of Calgary Technical Institute in the Hudson's Bay Store in Calgary, was commented on as follows:

Particularly interesting is the "Head of a Trapper," by a young student who has been studying since October. The story of this student is full of interest. He works in the mines of the Crow's Nest during the summer in order to enable himself to take advantage of the art classes in the winter. He has been self-taught up to the present season, and he shows unmistakable talent in his drawings from life, the antique and in design. One of his drawings from the antique is especially noticeable for the fine lines of the head and figure. His name is Luke Lindoe, and he comes of an artistic family in the North of England. He should go far with so much natural taste."

Coleman Competitors at Lethbridge Festival

Rudolf D'Amico second in the violin class with 86 points, just one behind Frank Hosek, of Hillcrest. Freda Antrobus was first in the intermediate piano class with 88 and Lorna Hales second, 87.

George Kerr of Blairmore received an outstanding adjudication for his violin playing in the senior class, the report stating "he is a very fine violinist and is of the calibre that makes virtuosos. He has excellent musicianship."

Freda Antrobus and Lorna Hales won the intermediate piano duet competition with 84 points.

NON-CITIZENS WHO SEND MONEY OUT OF PROV. INCEN RAPED

The practice of "non-citizens" who worked in Alberta and sent money to wives and relations outside the country should not be tolerated, Premier Aberhart of Alberta asserted Sunday at his Prope Bible Institute in reply to a letter.

"This shall be remedied as soon as possible and as far as possible," he added. Non-citizens should not be allowed to send money outside the province.

Premier Aberhart agreed with the letter which stated such procedure hurt Alberta and improved the position of the country to which the money was sent.

Business is sensitive—it goes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated.

Graduated From University

Friday's Edmonton Journal carried a front-page photograph of three University co-eds., one of whom was Margaret McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. C. McDonald, who was recently graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Household Economics. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald attended the graduation exercises. Mr. and Mrs. I. James also attended convocation, their daughter Irene being graduated with the degree Bachelor of Arts.

Your Own Town Newspaper Is Community Mirror

STRIKING display advertisements in The Journal are business builders and are carefully read by worth-while buyers. For complete coverage over a wide area it brings big returns, and inspires confidence and develops goodwill. The local weekly newspaper is read carefully by every member of the family who can read. The others have it read to them. You'll find leaders in their respective lines tell the public through The Journal, your up-to-date local community newspaper. If it is for Coleman, The Journal prints it. Our home town first, and all the time, is our motto. Patronize Journal Advertisers.

The provincial government fired its publicity commissioner, thereby eliminating direct contact through a regular department with the newspapers, and criticized the newspapers for not giving more information on the sales tax methods of collection. It is really seeking an alibi for its inexperience in not making known in a clear manner the workings of the Ultimate Consumers' Tax.

Carnival Arrangements Going Ahead

Canadian Legion and Ladies Auxiliary Enthusiastic in Preparing for Big Community Event May 30 and June 1.

Plans are proceeding enthusiastically for the Legion carnival on May 30 and June 1, committees of the Legion and the Ladies Auxiliary reporting at a general meeting on May 15, in the I.O.O.F. hall.

Manager Walter Purvis reported on purchases of merchandise, which will be of a much higher grade than usual, and twelve booths will be in operation. H. T. Halliwell reported on the ticket sale for the prize drawings, and asked that members having tickets for sale make their returns as early as possible before the carnival, or if holding unsold tickets, report on the number sold.

President Lonsbury asks that all members meet at the rink on Sunday morning, May 24, at 10.30 a.m., for a general meeting. It was reported by Mr. Purvis that Mr. Kellock had kindly agreed to loan lumber for the booths, provided it is cut to standard lengths, so that it may be of further use.

W. Martland, acting secretary for Harold Turner, reported the

Census Starts June 1

READERS' attention is called to the advertisement giving details of the questions to be answered when the census taker calls, and it will save time if people will study them briefly so that as little time as possible will be required in the enumerator filling in the forms. See the display advertisement on Page 10.

Bellevue's Big Day Monday--Victoria Day

Committees for the Bellevue celebration on May 25 are confident of a successful day. An attractive program commences at 10.30 a. m. with races for juniors up to ten years of age.

The grand parade will leave the school grounds at 1.30 p.m. headed by the brass band under George Goodwin. On arrival at the grounds, crowning of the May Queen will take place.

A splendid open-air program under the direction of Mrs. Upson will be staged. The balance of the afternoon will be given over to softball tournaments and general sports. It will be a real family day, with something of interest for everybody.

The closing event of the celebration will be the amateur contest at 8 p.m., good cash prizes being offered.

THE TRUTH IS UNPLEASANT AND PRESS IS CRITICIZED

Some Social Credit representatives resent newspapers not under their control telling the facts. The Ultimate Consumers Tax is a case in point. Throughout the province protests have been lodged by retail merchants against the unwieldy manner in which it is to be collected. Too much work is involved in making a receipt for the tax even as small as one cent, which the act requires. Pass merchants have asked the government to have it included in the wholesale invoices.

Because newspapers have reported these meetings of retail merchants, as they constitute part of the general run of the news, they are charged with hindering instead of helping the government. They evidently are expected not to print anything opposite to the views of the government or its regulations, in other words, a controlled press is their ideal of newspaperdom.

Cranbrook Engineer on Road Costs

Evans S. Jones, district engineer, gave a very interesting and informative talk at the Cranbrook Rotary club meeting on the cost of different types of road surfacing. Black-top, the speaker estimated, cost from $4,000 to $5,000 per mile, while the more permanent concrete type ran to $25,000 per mile.

A man always wrong in his judgments cannot compete with one who is right occasionally.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE Canadian Radio Commission has been severely criticized. Western people particularly receive very little benefit from C.R.C. broadcasts, as local stations are blanketed by United States stations. The two dollar license fee is an imposition which is objected to, as little is obtained in return, and many do not pay the license. The public would like to know what the licenses are used for, outside of paying salaries to C.R.C. officials whose programs are to say the least, "the bunk." The nightly broadcast of news by courtesy of the Canadian Press is about the only item which has general interest, and that can be obtained by reading the newspapers. It is high time that C.R.C. either folded up and stopped imposing a license of $2.00, or allowed commercial companies to organize the programs.

"THE CAPTAINS [and the Kings depart." One is reminded of this as prominent figures pass off the stage, the latest being Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, who delivered Palestine from the hands of the Turks during the Great War. At 75 years of age he died in his London home in Kensington. The campaign in the Holy Land did not attract such striking attention as the war on the western front, yet it played a very important part in the general scheme of war operations. Viscount Allenby served as a corps commander in France for three years before being sent to command the British forces in Palestine, and his vigorous campaigning there led to the triumphal entry of his army into Jerusalem and the expulsion of Turks from the Holy Land after centuries of occupation.

NO BUSINESS will run itself. Neither will the best system in the world run itself. It must have competent supervision. The supervision of business requires discipline and close attention to the details connected therewith. The public quickly notices a sloppily run business or store, and act accordingly.

THE BARLOW COMMISSION in its report on the Alberta coal industry, recommended an increased subvention on Alberta coal to facilitate its use in Ontario. By so doing it would increase employment of Alberta miners, also railway traffic, and put hundreds of thousands of dollars into circulation in Canada which now go out of the country to pay for United States coal. This is a matter which the provincial government might well push with profit to the province, especially as the recommendation for the subvention was made by an impartial commission, consisting of Sir Montagu Barlow, who spent several weeks in Alberta and enquired into conditions in every coal mining centre, and later spent some time in Ontario in order to fully study the subject both from an eastern and western viewpoint. It is time that the east spent more of its money in the west, to make up for the western money that is spent with eastern manufacturers.

PRACTICAL PARAGRAPHS

by John Edwin Price

DOING SOMETHING WITH YOUR ENVIRONMENT

When you look at the variety of flowers in an old-fashioned flower garden, you wonder how it is that one stalk draws one color and shape from the soil, sun and air, while right beside it another stalk produces a different color and shape from the same sun, soil and air.

Many people complain that their lives have been stunted and disfigured by their environment. Some do struggle and grow under shaded conditions with poor percentage soil to draw strength from. But the fact remains that others under less favorable conditions often amount to more.

An old axiom says that life is adaptation to environment. Man can, if he will, adapt himself to his environment. Because he can move about, he is not so handicapped by a poor environment as a plant may be if a starved bit of soil.

His environment is made up of people, books, plays, pictures, fun, work, and the capacity to dream. Some plants put out many tendrils in many directions when the immediate soil is poor. Wise men do something similar. A new source of growing material is to be found for modern men and women in our night schools for adult education.

And with present-day preachers having to work extra hard to make their services compete in real value (to those whom they would have come again) with theatre and radio programs, there is much man-building material available in almost any church.

SENTENCE STIMULANTS

A man with ability minus character can sure raise the devil. A man with ability plus character and courage should be able to get a raise—even from a devil of an employer.

Flood sufferers learned that murky water would clear if just allowed to set. Cease agitating your troubles and watch them clear up.

"Tis the set of the sail in the blowing gale" that decides which way you go—but if you don't know where you want to go, what's the use in worrying about the sails or wind.

As I figure it out, ability plus humility plus patience plus perseverance adds up to SUCCESS.

LAUGHTER

Daniel March once said: "Laughter provides both physical and mental release. It counteracts rigidity, and gives one a release from difficulties which weigh on the mind. Its physical benefits are in the expansion of the lungs, the activation of the heart, and the release of the over-worked capillary system. Laughter has a distinct social value in making a person liveable and responsive. Lastly, it has an effect on the emotions, providing an emotional release that makes for a wholesome and cheerful outlook."

If the heavy weight of an adverse thought is pulling you down, laugh it loose. You'll find that even swimming in rough water isn't then so bad.

VICTORIA DAY Monday, May 25 is a Dominion Holiday

Frank Old-Timer Buried To-day

Ex-Service Men and Elks Lodge
Honor Father of Three Soldier
Sons Killed in War.

General regret is expressed at the death of Dan Dunlop, of Frank, aged 71, and resident there for 31 years. For some years Armistice Day services were held at his home, in honor of three sons killed during the Great War. Deep sympathy is felt for his wife, and members of the Canadian Legion are attending the funeral this (Thursday) afternoon.

He originally came from Kilmarnock, Scotland. He was always deeply appreciative of the ex-service men and clergymen of the Pass for holding services at his home. His familiar figure standing bareheaded beside the old war trophy, a captured German field gun, will be remembered by many who attended the services, while his wife proudly wore the medals awarded their sons who gave their all for the Empire.

Ed. Donkin, president of Bellevue branch of the Legion issued a call to all ex-service men to attend. Many from Coleman were unable to go owing to McGillivray mine working to-day.

The Elks Lodge will take part in the funeral services, which will be conducted by Rev. A. E. Larke, and the Last Post and Reveille will be sounded by the Legion trumpeter.

On April 30 Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop celebrated their golden wedding, and shortly after he was stricken with a cold, which developed into pneumonia, which caused his death.

Newspapers are recognized mediums of publicity and news service. There are many substitutes, but then imitation always was and always will be the sincerest form of flattery.

There was a jolly bachelor
Who died at eighty-eight.
And by his will the good man left
The whole of his estate
To the women who had answered
Nay

When asked by him to wed,
or, he declared, he owed to them
The happy life he'd led.
—Liberty.

Amateurs in government should remember that old axiom that you cannot govern without the consent of the governed, at least that is the accepted rule in a democratic country, and the press stands for complete liberty of thought and its expression as long as it is not seditious or treasonable. By their expressions and conduct towards those who will not meekly become "rubber stamps" they indicate their lack of capacity to democratically govern. When reason fails, they resort to abuse or statements which cannot be substantiated; always the refuge of a shallow mind which does not think a thing through to a logical conclusion.

R. F. Barnes was in Calgary over the week-end on a business trip.

Mrs. Rear has had as her guest for the past few weeks her sister from Calgary.

St. Alban's Ladies Aid held a successful tea and sale last Saturday in the parish hall.

John Read, employed at International Co., suffered a broken wrist while at work on Sunday morning when a truck caught his arm.

The fifth case of scarlet fever was reported on Monday, at the home of Martin Biela, West Coleman. Schools have been closed for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Dutil accompanied by Mrs. Wm. Gate motored to Calgary Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Morgan and son Ivor, accompanied by Mrs. T. Flynn, motored to Lethbridge on Saturday where Mr. Morgan purchased a new Dodge car.

Among the Alberta University awards announced last week the prize for General Proficiency in Intermediate Year Nursing was awarded to Doreen Speers and Wilma Halliwell, each having equal marks.

Mr. Norman Allan of Barons, accompanied by Mrs. Johnson, Marjorie Cawdon and Gwen Allan, motored to Coleman on Sunday. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Halliwell.

Corbin Ladies Aid held a bazaar on Saturday, which was well patronized, all the goods being sold in the evening a dance was held in the community hall. The proceeds were for relief purposes.

The Polish Society hall will be the scene of an interesting ceremony on Monday, May 25, when their new lodge flag will be dedicated by Mr. John Sikora, of Winnipeg. Invitations are being issued to local people as guests of the Society for the occasion.

"Sage" broadcasts were "just ripe" in the opinion of Hector Charlesworth, chairman of the Canadian Radio Commission, speaking before a committee of the House of Commons. There is plenty of "tripe" floating over the ether every day, but you do not have to listen to it.

Blairmore golf club members were the guests of the Fernie club on Sunday in the first tournament of the season. Approximately twenty players represented the Blairmore club. Those attending from Coleman were Geo. Pattinson, H. C. McBurney, W. L. Rippon and Reg. Jones. The Alberta players had the edge in the games played and finished the day's play with a slight lead.

The lease formerly held by Joe Lysek of the Palm Confectionery has been taken over by Mr. Waldie of Creston and formerly of Fernie, the new lessee starting in business June 1. Mr. Frank Celli of Creston still retains ownership of the property. Painters are at present renovating the interior of the store preparatory to Mr. Waldie starting business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald attended the graduation exercises of Holy Cross hospital in Calgary, when their daughter Penelope was one of the graduating class from the nursing school. Accompanying them were Isobel and Jim, and Mrs. Florence Smith, Mrs. Norman McAuley, and Mrs. Sfreddo, whose niece was among the graduates. The latter returned from Calgary to Dryden, Ont.

The Salvation Army officers, Lieuts. Fitch and Pearce, are quarantined, as the latter has developed scarlet fever. They ask that persons wishing to donate towards the Self Denial fund send donations by mail to the Salvation Army, Coleman, which would be appreciated. Violet Knowles is doing a good turn in the meantime by selling the War Cry and making collections for the Army.

Cultivate a personal interest in the store ads—that will be merely an important way of safeguarding your purse from the little leaks that occur through unwise buying.

"Not another low priced car could measure up to TERRAPLANE"

"I'd never have believed it was a low priced car!"

MANY people who buy Terraplanes from us are soon bringing in friends who want a low priced car. That's when you'll hear these buyers tell why they chose Terraplanes... much the same reasons as you'll see at the right.

They'll talk about Terraplane economy, too... tell how they get greater savings than any car ever gave them before. And describe Terraplane performance with an enthusiasm that comes only from actual experience. They'll point out the distinctive new styling and mention the ruggedness beneath it... long life shown by 125,000, 150,000 miles or more from actual owner records.

And when they talk about safety... they've real news to tell! Safest stopping ever built into any car... with two braking systems from the same brake pedal! Powerful big hydraulics, away ahead of all hydraulics of the past. And, with them, a reserve set of brakes that takes hold automatically when needed! Plus a new kind of parking brake that handles easier than any you've ever seen on any car.

If you have a friend who owns a 1936 Terraplane, ask him to tell you about the greater value he got for his money in this biggest of all low priced cars. Or, better yet, drop in at our showroom and take a "Discovery Drive" yourself.

Going To Antarctic

Former Pilot On Byrd Expeditions Is Planning Trip

Harold I. June, formerly of Bristol, chief pilot on two Byrd Antarctic expeditions, and Lincoln Ellsworth, flyer-explorer, are planning a joint expedition to the South Pole to discover what is thought to be the last remaining continent in the world, 600,000 square miles never seen by man.

Announcement of the new expedition, which may not leave for two or three years, or until new ice exploration equipment is perfected, was made at Providence, R.I., by June.

"The new continent is an area about one-third the size of Australia and is on a straight line through the South Pole from Little America, on the other side of the world," June said. "No man has ever seen this territory, but we believe it offers the last bit of uncharted land on the globe."

Carbon Monoxide Poisoning

Doctor Explains How Gas From Automobile Constitutes Danger

The traffic cop at a busy intersection who irritably blows his whistle and gruffly hands out tickets for minor infractions may be suffering from inhaling too much carbon monoxide, one of the elements in the automobile exhaust.

Or if a man suddenly starts quarrelling with his family, worrying about his job, and even threatening suicide—all for no apparent reason—he may have too much of the gas in his blood.

Small amounts of carbon monoxide inhaled over long periods cause chronic poisoning and result in physical as well as mental ailments, Dr. Harvey G. Beck, of Baltimore, explained.

Dr. Beck was one of more than 7,000 delegates at Kansas City who attended the American Medical Association's 78th annual convention.

City dwellers can't step outdoors at the average busy street intersections to escape the gas and get fresh air, Dr. Beck said.

"It has been demonstrated that traffic patrolmen after eight hours exposure will reach a danger point in their blood saturation," he explained.

Only one per cent. of carbon monoxide in the atmosphere causes acute poisoning and usually results in instantaneous death. Chronic poisoning causes anxiety, depression, fears, introspection, and emotional upheavals, Dr. Beck said.

The mental alertness of the driver of an automobile is dimmed through inhaling small quantities of the gas, he said, contributing to the causes for many accidents.

New York's Latest Craze

Train Carries People To Country For Bicycle Riding

Those who pictured New Yorkers as incapable of being torn away from theatres and night clubs revised their opinion last winter when ski trains hauled 12,000 on a single week-end to the snow slopes of the Adirondacks.

The illusion is again shattered by the inauguration of a "bicycle train" service. On a recent Sunday the first bicycle train of the season carried 222 cycling enthusiasts to a rural district of Massachusetts, waited while they "wheeled" merrily over a 20-mile course among the violet and cowslip-sprinkled vales, and then whirled them back to the city in time for a good night's recuperation before the tolls of Monday.

It was reported as a day rich in the enjoyment of nature and exercise. A seasoned, solitary outdoor student might find fault with the arrangement, as a cyclist accompanying by 221 others, mostly chattering, is not exactly alone with Nature, but 221 are considerably less than 7,000,000, and doubtless to a New Yorker a country area containing as few people as that is practically a vacuum.

As for exercises, the excursion left nothing to be desired. Any one out of training who rides a bicycle 26 miles knows he has been some place. Poundage was noticeably reduced—the purpose for which some went—muscles were toned up, and many a fine Charlie horse acquired to serve as a reminder of the outing during the week to follow.

More joy to the New York outers. —Detroit News.

Displayed Rare Tact

After-Drum Speaker Corrected Error In Clever Way

Waterloo Bridge, masterpiece of London's great eighteenth-century engineer, John Rennie, spanning the river Thames close to Parliament buildings, and now being rebuilt, offers a new example of professional tact.

An architect—with London's greatest exponent of his own particular craft, Sir Christopher Wren, in his thoughts—in an after-dinner speech accidentally included Waterloo Bridge among buildings for which this famous builder of fine structures was responsible.

An engineer guest was called upon to reply. If he corrected the slip his architect host might feel humiliated. If he allowed it to pass he might seem to belittle the achievements of one of the greatest lights in his own profession. Humbly, therefore, he said: "The last speaker has rightly exalted Wren; so endeared is he to us engineers that we affectionately style him '(W) rennie'!" —Christian Science Monitor.

New Safety Device

An "elastic" barrier is being tried out in Berlin on a steep hill to protect motorists from going over the edge. Two steel ropes are stretched at the height of a motor car's wheels along the dangerous side of the road, and are fastened to iron posts at either end by wire springs.

The Battle of New Orleans was fought more than a month after the signing of peace in the War of 1812 between England and America.

South Africa is trying to stop the rural youth migration to cities.

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THIS person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach, and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

Canton Police Place Stamp On Many Girls' Clothing

Daring young ladies of Canton who appear on the streets with bare arms may continue to do so if their garb bears the label "extraordinary dress." One hundred girls, mainly university co-eds, who sought to emulate the dress example of their western sisters, were rounded up recently by police and charged with violating the law prohibiting bare arms. They were lectured by magistrates, then permitted to go forth after a rubber stamp reading "extraordinary dress" had been applied to their clothes.

Pineapple Tariff Cut

Reduction in the tariff on canned pineapples from Australia was announced in a departmental bulletin issued by Hon. J. L. Halsey, revenue minister. ## Explanations and Comments

A Prophecy of the Fall of Jerusalem and of the Second Advent, Luke 21:34-36. Some of the people present began to talk about the wonderful stones and fine offerings that adorned the temple. Matthew says that it was one of the disciples who drew Jesus' attention to the glories of the temple. The stones in the foundation were enormous, and there were columns fifty feet in height of one block of marble. "The gift to the temple were many and costly, from the great ones of the earth; a table from Ptolemy, a chair from Agrippa, a golden vine from Herod the Great. The temple was famous for its wealth."

The days will come, Jesus prophesied, in which there shall not be left one stone of the temple upon another, that shall not be thrown down. This prediction was literally fulfilled forty years later. Josephus, writing about the destruction of Jerusalem says: "Cesar now gave orders to demolish the whole city and temple, except the highest towers and the west wall. All the rest was so thoroughly laid over with the ground by those that dug it up to the foundation, that there was left nothing to make those who came thither believe that it had ever been inhabited." "On the ninth day of Ab," the Talmud says, "the city of Jerusalem was ploughed up."

A Call to Understanding Living. Our Scripture selections for today's study are taken from what has been called Jesus' eschatological discourse. Our first selection seems to have specific reference to the destruction of Jerusalem only, and the latter portion of the chapter seems to mingle that event with some other one in a way that is rather difficult to follow. But the advice and admonition in this first section is plain enough. In the midst of rumors of catastrophes and great disturbances in the thoughts of men, Jesus advises his followers to be steady and patient, and not let themselves be led astray or unduly frightened.

Who, however, helpful, rather matter-of-fact advice it is, but suited well to the occasion. Jesus is not advising, let it be understood, his followers not be interested in these great and tragic events which he sees coming, but he insists that even in face of them they ought not to get panic-stricken, but to keep their souls in trust and patience and live lives of faithfulness and service. Those to whom the things of the spirit are the great things should be able to do this.

YOUR GARDEN

First flowers to be sown are those very hardy kinds which naturally reproduce themselves in Canada, such as Cosmos, California Poppy, Alyssum, Calendula and Candytuft. In the second group are the Zinnia, Marigold, Nasturtium, Stocks, Aster and Petunia which may be sown in a serious frost, and of the tender things which must be held back until all danger of freezing is over, are the Dahlias, Cannas and Gladioli. As the latter are all bulbs and do not come up until a week or so after planting, they may be sown within a few days of the arrival of really warm weather. One is well advised to save a little seed of each variety from all plantings in order to fill in inevitable "misses" caused by drought, washings or other things beyond control. In the perennial flower bed there will also be gaps after winter-killing has occurred. These may be filled in with quick growing annuals.

Seed should not be sown too deep and plants should not be allowed to grow too close together. Very fine seed like that of the poppy and alyssum, for instance, is best mixed with a little sand and the mixture sown, otherwise the seed will not go very far and will be put in much too close together. With such small seed merely pressing into finely prepared soil will be sufficient. The general rule is to sow to a depth of three times the diameter of the seed. This will mean pressing in most flowers, except things like Candytuft, Beans, Nasturtiums and Sweet Peas, which are large and should be covered about an inch deep. Bulbs or corms, like the Dahlias, and Gladioli may be put down quite a piece, from four inches to a foot. Fine vegetable seed such as lettuce and carrots is merely pressed well into the soil and raked lightly over, bulbs buried about half an inch, beans and peas about an inch. Thinning of both flowers and vegetables is most important after the plants are up an inch or so. With flowers a good rule is to have half as much space between as the plants will be high. This will be about a foot between ordinary Marigold, Petunias and Asters, two to three feet between Cosmos and Dahlias, but only an inch or so separating tiny Alyssum, Lobelia and other edging plants. Well spaced flowers will be more sturdy and thus resist heavy wind and rain. Even the smallest vegetables such as lettuce and radish must be thinned too. An inch or so will be sufficient, and that is also all the room that will be needed for carrots and beets, because when these things have developed roots an inch thick and two or three long, every other plant should be removed and used, this proceeding followed until the whole row is used up.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

The meeting terminates, but Buzz Hamilton and his sister, Helen, Link and Kilgo stay behind and Helen accuses Fleming of trying to influence his sister and, as he asserts, ruin his "spread". Buzz shoots at Fleming in an uncontrollable fit of anger, but Buster Townsend, Link's foreman, is uninjured. Buzz is arrested and sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Helen and Fleming form a partnership to provide irrigation for their own properties.

Fleming goes home and studies the plans drawn by Link for him when they were adapted to a smaller scheme suitable for his and Helen's land, and is satisfied it could be done. Feeling that he lights the fire and there is an explosion that wrecks the house, burns it and the dam and renders Link unconscious. He is rescued from the blaze by an employee.

Buzz Hamilton arrives back in Rawhide while Fleming and Helen are in the bank getting a loan for payment of wages for work on the dam. Roper Kilgo and Jackpot Mell meet him and he goes into the saloon with them. By the time his sister and Link come from the bank, Buzz has had several drinks. Roper has distorted the facts concerning the dam proposal to Buzz, making it appear that Link was trying to ruin him. Buzz, inflamed with liquor and anger, tries to throw Fleming, but is thrown to the floor. Then Helen appears and tells Fleming she has been robbed of the money they had obtained from the bank.

On their arrival home they were met by a couple of Link's enemies, who told Fleming that there was a strike at the dam, and that the men were afraid they would not get their money. Link told them of the robbery and promised them the money as soon as possible. The men reluctantly returned to work.

Fleming finds Roper and Jackpot Mell making trouble among his workmen, and orders them off his place at the point of his gun. Both Jackpot and Roper swear revenge. Mell telling Fleming to carry his gun with him, as Mell would shoot him the next time they met.

(Now Go On With The Story)

The wiry little Irishman he addressed was pale with pain. But with the buoyancy of his race he grinned wryly. "Feel like a little Egyptyptian mummies, Mister Flemm. Only I guess they ain't got busted legs like I have, eh?"

Link examined the man's injuries and found that he had an arm broken three inches below the elbow, feet and legs crushed by dirt and pebbles, and a bad bruise in his side. He was not dangerously injured, however, unless internally, which could not yet be determined.

When he made sure of arrangements going forward to take the pair by wagon to his own ranch, Link for the first time noticed that the remaining workers stood around in an attitude of stolid indecision. "Well, boys?"

One, bolder than the rest, stepped forward. "We don't like the way things are goin' around here," he growled. "We want our pay. We're quittin' now."

For an instant Link did not know what reply to make. Several laborers supported this with similar statements, and the remainder of the group, a dozen strong, looked belligerent.

Fleming glanced toward the scene of the accident—if it could possibly be an accident, which he strongly doubted. "I see," he said slowly. "You're all yellow. Scared to work here, just because a couple of men got hurt by something that couldn't be foreseen."

"Boys, I told McLendon to take every precaution for safety. Buster Townsend got the same instructions. Hey, Mac, isn't that so?" He saw the engineer coming toward him after personally seeing that Orliss and Jimmie Dooley were started toward the Star Loop.

McLendon nodded. "I think I've done everything a man could," he said briefly, and hurried a withering look at the quitters.

"Well, they're yellow, Mac. They want their dolls. They're going home."

"Now, that ain't it, Fleming. We ain't scared. But—"

"Ferguson? If you have anything to say, say it!"

The self-appointed leader shifted uneasily, hoping some of his fellows would speak up. But none did. "It's pay, mainly. And we been workin' long enough. We're quittin'."

We want our money. Fleming replied him quizzically. "You want your wages to take home now, is that it? You're not out to earn all you can for that wife of yours, eh? Satisfied to earn a little while she takes in washing. She's worth four of you, Ferguson, and I say was unlucky she ever met you. You're lazy, no account. Don't deserve an honest, pretty woman like you got. You never gave her a square deal yet, and if Mac hadn't stopped all liquor out here you'd be drunk same as you are at Rawhide now'n half the time!"

He spat disgustedly. "Your type is a quitter anyhow. You're no good to anybody, especially your wife and yourself. All right, you don't quit here. You're fired!"

The charges Link made were true, as every man listening knew full well. Yet he would not have uttered them had not his anger been aroused. He had not needed a bold stroke. He knew at a glance that Ferguson was the chief trouble-maker here, and perhaps was responsible for this sudden strike. Link advanced on the man. "Get out before I knock you down!"

The fellow retreated to safety. "I want my wages!" he whined. Fleming plunged a hand into his trousers pocket and drew out several bills. "How much, Mac?"

"Twelve dollars an' forty cents," supplied Ferguson.

"All right. Never mind lookin' it up. Here," and Link tossed over the change. "I'm glad to get rid of you, so cheap. Now clear off this property before I knock you off!" he snapped.

But now he had received his money, Ferguson seemed reluctant to leave. He halted a safe distance and turned. "Say, Mr. Fleming—"

"Get out! And don't come back! Now, boys, what's the trouble? Worried I'm not going to pay up? Or are you a gang of good-for-nothings like Ferguson, so when you have a few dollars coming you want to scot to town and guzzle it down in whiskey?"

Stated this way, they were uncertain. "Wal," said a red-nosed man, staring down at his broken and dirt-stained finger nails, "I don't mind workin' another day or two for yuh, Link. That is, if I'm gonna get cash when it's over."

"Say what I gave Ferguson?"

"Yeah!"

"There'll be more where that came from. I've kept my steers free just to take care of yuh hembres, and I'm sellin' 'em tomorrow. That means cash at least before sunset. Ought to satisfy the crowd of you."

"But say," objected a grizzled individual who wore the hallmarks of a miner, "we need twice as many guys workin' here!"

There was some truth in this. Fleming frowned and fingered his chin, glancing at McLendon. He could not think where it might be possible to get more men with the whole of Boone County hostile to his project. "Boys, we're nearly to the end of this job. I'll pay double for overtime, so there's a good chance for you to make some real money!"

"And cash when?" persisted an older individual. "Double time's no good until we see it."

"You'll get it. Cash up to date tomorrow. I don't mean the next day nor next week. Tomorrow! That's definite I reckon? Now," he demanded, eyeing the crowd before him, "how about it? Who's quittin' and who's workin'?"

"I'm quittin'."

"Me too." Two men stepped forward. "I've had enough of yore damned quarry, Fleming," one declared with unexpected spirit. "But mainly I don't expect yuh'll ever pay a cent. Once this dam's goin' yuh'll forget every man jack of us."

No hint of inner troubles showed as he looked at the remaining crowd of workers who with Buster, McLendon, and the man driving the injured pair to the Star Loop, comprised the staff. "Anybody else?"

For answer three shuffled away and picked up their tools. After some indecision and considerable growling, others followed suit. Nearly 24 men were again on the job.

Link took McLendon aside. "I sure appreciate you doin' your best, Mac. And the fact that Helen and I owe you two months' pay and never heard a word about it since the day you came."

The other stirred uneasily. I know you're a square shooter, Fleming," he paused. "Somebody around here spreads dissatisfaction among the men. They keep growling and complainin'. This work is no harder than any other, but they keep worryin' that you won't find the money to pay them."

Link looked troubled. "How about Buster Townsend?"

"Townsend? What do you mean? He tries to make them work."

"Ever see him wearing leather cuffs with rivets formed like a fleur-de-lis?"

McLendon blinked. "Yeah," he said slowly. "I think I have. I'm sure of it. Why?"

"Thanks, Mac. I'll have a talk with Buster." Turning away, Link found his ranch foreman squinting at blueprints. No one was within earshot.

"Where's that pair of cuffs you used to wear?" he inquired casually, glancing at the brawny arms with sleeves rolled up.

"Huh? Oh, them? Darned if I know. Yeah," Townsend added quizzically. "I guess one of 'em is in the shack up above. I lost the other a couple days ago. Why?"

For answer his employer whipped out his forty-five. Its muzzle pressed hard against the foreman's stomach. "You hold up!" Link ordered yesterday, just outside Rawhide!" he charged angrily. "Where's the money? Buster, I never thought you'd doublecross me!"

Astonishment flooded the other's leathery countenance and he glanced down at the threatening sixgun. But there was no trace of fear showing, only brut plainity evident.

"You're wrong, Link," he declared. "I pulled no holdup yesterday or any other time. I've worked for yuh faithful as any man could. Yeah, and last Fall I got shot for yuh, too."

There was a moment of tense silence. "Mac!" called Fleming over his shoulder. The engineer approached, his eyes wide in wonder at the gun covering Townsend. "Was Buster working here yesterday morning, or was he gone for awhile?"

The man hesitated while he searched the faces of the pair standing before him. "Why, sure he was here! Buster and I were wrangling over some blueprints. In fact, he proved that I'd miscalculated five-eighths of an inch. You see, on those supports for the—"

"Hm. All right." Abruptly he holstered his gun. He waited for the engineer to leave, a wondering expression on his sober face. Then Fleming extended his hand. "I'm sorry, Buster. Reckon I'm all tensed up about this thing. But how did your cuffs get on the holdup? Helen

Mr. CAFFEINE-NERVES... he's ushered out!

TO BE SURE, many people find that tea and coffee do not disagree with them. But when there are lots of them—and should not drink them at all. You may be one of those—without realizing it. The caffeine found in both tea and coffee may be working night and day to rob you of sleep, upset your digestion, or undermine your nervous system.

If you suspect that tea and coffee do not agree with you... try Postum instead for 30 days. It is simply whole wheat and bran roasted and slightly sweetened. It is a delicious drink, and contains nothing that can possibly harm you.

30 DAYS LATER

Yanked one off, and I'm plumb sure it belonged to you!"

"Say! Ames Stephen came out here and give me a reg'lar third degree, but I didn't know what the heck it was about." Comprehension dawned in Buster's honest eyes; then a wan grin covered his face. "Link, I wouldn't do a job like that. I missed the cuffs and thought they must be somewhere around or in the bunkhouse on the spread. Now ain't that funny, huh?" And the foreman chuckled vigorously on his quid of tobacco.

Pension Claims

Commission Grants A Total Of 2,651 Claims During Fiscal Year

A total of 2,651 pension claims were granted by the Canadian pension commission in Ottawa during the fiscal year, Lt.-Col. B. C. Topp, chief pension advocate, told the commons committee on veterans' men's problems. Those not granted numbered 6,488, of which 50 per cent. were accepted by the applicants. The remainder were referred by the claimants to the pension quorum.

In the preceding fiscal year 3,359 pensions were granted and 9,578 rejected by the commission.

An Unusual Accident

Boy Killed When Taut Rope Flung Him 150 Yards

Catastrophed over the roofs of a row of houses when caught in a tree-feller's guide rope at Carleton Place, England, 11-year-old Stanley Parish was hurled a distance of 150 yards and almost instantly killed when his descending body crashed through a garden fence.

With 200 other children he had been watching the feller. The tree had been sawn nearly through, and the men were pulling it with a rope.

With a loud crack, it crashed to the ground, and at the same instant a guide-rope which had been used to prevent the tree falling on a house became taut.

A second later something went hurtling through the air and over the roofs of the houses.

At first it was thought it was part of the tree. Then the on-lookers realized it was the boy as they saw the wind catch his overcoat and fluster it out.

Felix Willard, who had been watching nearby, said: "The lad soared through the air like a rocket. He was at least 40 feet high, and appeared just to miss a branch of another tree and to clear the chimney-pots."

Fishing Pact Agreement

Canadian and American Interests Get Together On Treaty

Canadian and American fishing interests have reached an agreement on ratification of the 1930 sockeye salmon treaty which Canada ratified, but which failed to pass the United States Senate.

The agreement was effected through compromises which provided for creation of an advisory committee in the treaty and delegation of wide regulatory powers to the commission. The committee would be composed of 10 members, five from each country.

The conference voted that if amendments proposed to the treaty should prove unacceptable to the governments, then it would favor acceptance of another treaty.

Not Easy To Remember

The prosecutor was a bit amazed when Chester Kallinowski testified during a trial at Buffalo he didn't know the last name of his fiancée. "Her first name is Blanche," he said. When the girl was called to the stand, all was explained. "My last name is too hard to remember," she said. "It's Wojciechowski." 2151

Little Helps For This Week

Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distress for Christ's sake, for when I am weak then I am strong. 2 Cor. 12:10.

Whatever God does is well; in patience let us wait: He doth Himself our burdens bear. He doth for us take care, And He, our God, knows all our weary days. Come, give Him praise.

Nothing, but seeing God in everything, will make us loving and patient with those who annoy and trouble us. They will be to us then only the instruments for accomplishing His tender and wise purpose towards us, and we shall even then find ourselves at last inwardly thanking them for the blessings they bring us. Nothing else will completely put an end to all murmuring and rebellious thoughts.

Intelligence Of Rate

Adult rats exceed in reasoning ability children up to 5 or 6 years old, it is shown by comparable tests made at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor by Dr. N. R. F. Maier, of the psychology department.

A new electric lamp is said to give benefits of ultraviolet light exposure without sunburn.

Western Canada Fuel Association Convention Urges Lower Freight Rates

At Saskatoon last week coal operators and distributors held a three day convention, and unanimously decided that lower freight rates were necessary in order to make coal a more attractive fuel. The executive officials of the association will approach railway officials with a view to getting reduced rates in Western Canada. In urging this move, dealers pointed out that transportation costs were the largest single item in the price of coal in more distant markets. A reduction in freight rates would enable coal to meet the competition from substitute fuels, particularly in the Winnipeg market.

Among the officers named were Wm. Stevenson of Hillcrest, as vice president. W. Bird of Winnipeg was re-elected president.

PRAIRIE PROVINCES FIVE-YEAR CENSUS, JUNE 1st, 1936

When the Government Enumerator Calls.....

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT INVITES THE WILLING CO-OPERATION OF EVERY CITIZEN

COMMENCING June 1st, the usual five-year census of the three Prairie Provinces will be undertaken. The object of this census is to gather statistics by means of which your Government can function more intelligently, more effectively and more economically in the interests of all citizens of the country.

No Government ever yet succeeded or gave its best without a thorough knowledge of its country and its people. That is why we ask your utmost co-operation in the census of the Prairie Provinces which commences on June 1st this year. When the Government Enumerator calls at your door, receive him courteously. Give him all the information for which he asks. Remember, he is the agent of good administration and is in your service. Help him to complete his work with all possible despatch. On the accuracy and completeness of your replies to his questions depends the best interest of yourself and your Government.

ALL INFORMATION IS HELD STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL
You can place absolute trust in the official enumerator who calls on you. All information you provide will be held in the strictest confidence. It is compulsory by law to answer the questions put by the enumerator. But you are living up to the spirit of good citizenship as well as to the letter of the law by giving information readily, completely and sincerely.

Issued by Authority of

The Honourable W. D. EULER, M.P.
